1. A newly organized army corps of 28,000 men arrived in Ohrid and Struga, Yugoslavia. Twenty-eight tanks and "engined" artillery were included in the equipment of this force which was also stationed at Debar and Vevtani.
 2. An Army division at Bitolj was reported as being reinforced. Anti-aircraft guns have been mounted on the hills northwest of the city and "temporary" fortifications have been constructed. The Ols airfield was under repair and a training center for newly-inducted soldiers has been established at Bitolj.
 3. Yugoslav reserve officers were called to active duty and untrained men 20 years old were called up at the end of March. "Feverish" activity was observed in Army circles.
 4. No apparent move to reinforce the border troops in the sector opposite Florina has been observed.
